

FINAL INTERVIEW

If you're successful at the telephone interview stage, you may be invited to a final interview with your local Construction Director at Barratt. We'll give you all the instructions you'll need at the time, but here's some hints and tips to help get you prepared:

HINTS AND TIPS

KNOW WHAT WE'RE LOOKING FOR

Throughout the process, we'll be assessing you against our differentiators, which are a set of behaviours we look for in our employees. These include:

Consider how you match up against these differentiators and how you might demonstrate these on the day using the STAR framework (Situational, Task, Action, Result).

GET TO KNOW US AND THE INDUSTRY BETTER

You will have already completed some research ahead of your telephone interview, but you'll need to do a whole lot more. Get to know more about us; the type of projects we do, the type of people who work here as well as some of the challenges our business faces, now and in the future.

BE PROFESSIONAL

Ensure that you dress appropriately and be conscious of your body language. Sit with your back straight and shoulders open. A whopping 55% of communication is non-verbal, and another 38% is conveyed through tone of voice; your words only amount to 7%. Plan your journey in advance and leave yourself enough time to travel to the interview.

ASK QUESTIONS

Don't forget, this interview is a chance for you to learn about us too, so make sure you use this time to ask questions and find out if we're right for you. Take this opportunity to find out more about your specific division and job role.

BE YOURSELF!

Enthusiasm & confidence - be yourself and please ensure to bring your passion for both the Armed Forces Transition programme and Barratt Developments.

Good luck!
